[To be Continued] WHAT HAS BECOME OF SCOTT PARTIN.-Is Scott Partin still in these swamps, the scene of the wife-murder? Nothing can now be heard of him in that yieinity, and certain it is that he has shaken the dust of North Carolina from his feet. How he made his escape or whither he has gone is alike a mystery, to be solved only by time. It is to be hoped, in the inter est of humanity and justice, that he may be at last captured and made to pay the penalty for the revolting butchery of his wife and child.

Our local matter to a great extent is crowded out by our letter concerning the Western North Carolina Railroad, the premium list (in part) of the late State Fair, and other important matters.

THE WESTERN N.C. RAILROAD.

The Recent Visit of the New Board of Commissioners to the "Big Tunnel" - What is Proposed to be Done.

[FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.] Messrs. Editors :- Knowing the

deep interest you feel in the public works of our good old State at all times, and of the movements towards the completion of the Western N. C. Railroad at present, I take pleasure in saying the Commissioners seem disposed to regain the time which the Governor so needlessly wasted in their appointment. When it was known that Col, Fremont, in his own special train, was with the Commis-sloners in Salisbury on the 20th, and would accompany them over the whole line of the road, Madame Rumor suggested that the whole thing was to be turned over to him, and there was much rejoicing in the hope of a speedy completion of the line under the direction of his acknowledged ability and successful experience in Railroad matters. The party passed up the road on Tuesday and spent the night at Old Fort. Strengthening the inner man at the well provided table of the Blue Ridge Hotel, and leaving the Iron Horse at the end of his track, three of the Commissioners (Cannady, Rollins and Tate), Col. Fremont, Capt. T. Allen, Major Brink and your corre pondent formed a foot procession along the partially graded line up to the mouth of the "Big Tunnel," near the top of the Blue Ridge. The first three miles from Old Fort to Malone's Store requires but little repairs, two or three short bridges, and with the ties will be ready for the iron, when the track will be laid to this point to avois wagoning supplies, tools, &c., over this the steel est part of the way up the Ridge.

From Malone's Store to the 'Round Knob," a distance of about four miles, (by some of the walkers estimated at ten) a vast amount, and perhaps much the greater part of the grading was complete. A little repairs, and digging through the unfinished places will make this much more of the track ready for laying. At "Round Knob" the first stockade is to be built, for in this vicinity a vast amont of work remains to done. Around this most beautiful spot where stand the houses occupied by former officers and contractors the road makes a complete circle which being so repeated as to form very crooked letter S or almost the figure 8, puts about four miles of heavy grading, considerable stone work, bridging within a half or threefourths of a mile of head quarters. On this part of the line lie scattered the 'dumps," other grading implements which mark the place and the unfor-tunateday when this great work was Here am decaying implements and in the midst of unfinished work the mind involuntarily goes back to the time they were left and the causes thereof. Thousands will be required to replace and repair tools and machinery as it was then, before any work can be done on the road. But with the perseverence and economy which we may hope from the present management let us look forward and endeav-or to forget the past. Here we found Major Hicks and Allen of the Penitentiary department locating the stockade, who joined our proces on the remainder of our route. From 'Round Knob" to the mouth of the "Big Tunnel" was variously esti-mated by different members of the party from five to twenty miles. Col. Tate, who knew most about it, and who now appeared the best walker, putting on the lowest figures. But little has been done on this part of the line as compared with that over which we had passed, though enough to show the line graded into both sides of many of the hills and a tunne or two more than half through. The mountainous region through which customed walkers no doubt trebled its length in our minds. The long legs of Canady were valuable on the graded line, but fell behind the shorter proportions of Brink and Tate when every fellow had to do his own climbing. Col. Fremont frankly confessed it an unexpectedly tiresome trip, while several others very courteously kept him company some distance in the rear. Between two or three o'clock P. M. the long sought and many times wished for mouth of the "Big, Tunnel," where our wagons with the provision and the remainder of the party had gone to await our arrival, was reached, when it was resolved by several not to leave the wagon again for that day at least.

Not feeling perfectly certain on the score of snake-bites, it was thought advisable to take medicine before partaking of the bountiful and most inviting lunch thoughtfully provided by our Wilmington friends. eating and resting, the mouth of the "Big Tunnel" was peeped into, and then we proceeded to the top of the Ridge, where Col. Salisbury has an engine and a shaft sunk from the top of the Ridge down to the grade or the road in the middle of the "Big Tunnel" for taking out rock, dirt, &c. These are in a state of decay, but may be repaired and worked again. Here we separated, most of the party going on to Asheville; Col. Tate, Hicks, Allen and your correspondent taking a foot passage down the stage road, six miles to Old Fort, reaching there about dark, fully prepared for the substantials and delicacies which ever await the weary and hungry traveler at the Blue Rigde House, Carsidy, of the Wilmington Post, was ordered to report the remainder of the route from the top of the Ridge to Paint Rock, to which you are re-spectfully referred for further in-

Sheriff Waggoner, of Rowan county, settled with the State Treasurer yesterday, paying over to that functinnary the snug little $9,556,17. He came in third on the list.

THE WELDON FAIR.

First Day-Exhibition Large-Fine Racing.

[SPECIAL TO DAILY NEWS.]

WELDON, Oct. 26, 1875. Not a very large crowd attended the Fairto-day. Splendid exhibition of horses, nearly twice as many as ever here before, very fine show of cattle and sheep, a larger display of agricultural implements than was eyer here before. Floral Hall is not very well filled as yet. An interesting and exciting race to-day. Large crowd expected to-morrow.

THE SUPERINTENDENCY OF THE R. & G. R. R.-We hear it rumored that Mr. Joslah Turner is among the aspirants to the vacancy now existing as to this office. He has always shown a deep interest in the R. &G. R. R., and we hope the officials of that road will give his claims a favorable consideration. Mr. Turner is an old railroad man, having been on several occasions an aspirant for the N. C. R. R. and even having once been elected President of it, with the aid, it will be remembered, of Geo. W. Swepson. While President of the N. C. R. R. be displayed brilliant financial skill, declaring a dividend payable in Bonds of the road which some of his friends were evil disposed enough to buy up at a heavy discount. For this, of course, he should not be blamed. The financial skill was displayed. An ignorant public did not approve it. Hurrah for Turner for Superintendent of the Raleigh & Gaston Railroad.

MESSRS. MURCHISON & Co.-This New York house, composed of Mr. J. D. Williams, of Fayetteville, Majer Murchison and other North Carolinians, is at present dealing heavily in cotton in this market, being the principal buyers in the market. It is represented in this city by Mr. J. M. Dorrance, who has his office in the NEWS building. The success of these North Carolinians in the metropolis of New York is exceedingly flattering to their State, and we wish them continued prosperity.

THE UNVEILING OF STONEWALL JACKSON'S STATUE.-In our telegraphic columns this morning will be found a lengthy and most interesting account of the ceremonies yesterday in Richmond attendant upon the unveiling of the Jackson statue long as the best firkin Butter. One box, in that city. Virginia did honor to herself in thus honoring her patriot son, and the whole South to-day feels kindlier towards the English hearts that prompted this gift to the menory of a Southern chieftain and

THE ROBESONIAN AND THE RAL-EIGH PAPERS .-- The Lumberton Robesanian complains that the Raleigh papers are three or four days old when reaching that place. We find the error to be, brother Robesonian, that we have been mailing our paper via Fayetteville, which causes the delay. We have changed our books so that the mail for that point will be sent via Wilmington, and we hope this will prove corrective.

One of the articles exhibited at our State Fair, which received and was deserving a premium, was a quilt made by little Annie H. Myers, five years of age, daughter of T. H. B. Myers, Esq., of Washington, N. C. The squares are well cut and nicely sewed together, and is a remarkable piece of work for one so young. This quilt must have been admired by all who saw it.

We yesterday interviewed the polite workmen on the Government Postoffice building now in process of erection in this city, and will tomorrow take pleasure in writing up what we saw and learned in the interior of that massive stone structure.

row last Monday with a procession of Odd Fellows as it moved past the shouts, cheers and groans by the students. A dispatch says:

"Finally, a man who was following the procession was assaulted by the student and dragged from his cart. The Odd Fellows halted, broke ranks, and, with drawn swords went ensued, in which stones were thrown, swords broken, regalias torn, and caps damaged. One student was cut with a sword across the neck; another received a severe scalp wound, while a number were made to feel the points of their opponents' steel. One or two of the Cdd Fellows were hurt by stones. The police present were powerless to quell the disturbance, and before assistance could be procured the students had been put to flight. The riot caused a great commotion here. The general opinion is that the students were to blame."

USURY LAWS AS AFFECTED BY THE DECISION OF THE U. S. SUPREME COURT.

An important decision, affecting the operation of State usury laws upon National Banks, has recently been made by the Supreme Court of the United States. In the case of the Farmers and Merchants National Bank of Buffalo, N. Y., -vs. Dearing, the Supreme Court of New York decided that the provisions of the Usury law of that State, which are quite severe, were binding upon National Banks. An appeal was taken from this decision to the Supreme Court of the United States, and that tribunal, in an opinion recently delivered and reported in our telegraphic columns of yesterday, has reversed the decision of the New York Court. It decides that the various National Banks of the country are subject only to the penalty prescribed by the National Bank Act, for taking usurious interest, towit: a forfeiture of the interest; that this penalty can not be increased or interfered with by State legislation and, therefore that the penalties prescribed for a violation of the Usury law of the State of New York, are, in so far as National Banks are concerned, inoperative and void.

It will be remembered that when the usury law was under discussion in the General Assembly of North Carolina, last winter, the objection was urged against its passage that it would apply to contracts made by individuals and not to those made by National Banks and therefore that in its consequent partial operation, it would be unfair and onerous. In the Senate, a protest presented by Senator Busbee and signed by many other Senators, was filed against its passage for this very reason.

The decision of the U.S. Supreme Court, which is not an unexpected interpretation of the law, will have the effect of giving to National Banks in this State a monopoly of the business of money-lending.

The provisions of our usury law, with its tremendous penalties, are not applicable to loans made by them. The mild penalty inflicted by the National Bank Act has never. had the effect of restricting them to the rates of interest prescribed by the various State Legislatures, and so the Banks will have a monopoly. Individuals will prefer to place their money in the Banks, as a safer investment that loans to others, and the Banks will loan it out to needy borrowers at such rates as they may choose to ask. This is the evil that should have been guarded against by the framers of the law and that will need correction at the hands of the Legislature of 1876-'7.

The position of the News upon for instance, the large element of this important question has not Hebrews, who are among the most changed since last winter. It then advocated the incorporation of a class in any community, and why individuals upon a footing equal to them of any civil or political right, National Banks, and we regretted that the advoca'es of the measure saw fit to yote down an amendment saw fit to vote down an amendment

THE STRANGEMURDER TRIAL.

The trial of young Strange for the killing of Murray was to have come off Monday in Haywood counto. Whether it did begin as exposted, we are not able to say, owing to the remoteness of the transmentate region. No prisoner ever went to the bar with more auxious eyes bent upon him. A bright, intelligent, and promising youth; amiable in disposition; gentle, genial and pleasant in manners; the possessor of a thorough academic and collegiate education; a member of one of the most refined, cultivated and bonored families in the State; a member of the Church within the shadow of whose sanctuary he has been reared from his infancy up ; the cherished son of one of the noblest, gentles', and purest Christians in the land-"Tommy" Strange seems all out of place a prisoner at the bar of Justice, to answer a charge of shedding man's blood. It is a pitiable sight, to be sure; a terrible sight, one that bears with it a solemn warning to young men everywhere to bridle their angry passions, but and if they must needs fight anyhow, let them do it with their fists and not with proposition. deadly weapons. There is nothing in life which can compensate a man for shedding the blood of a fellowcreature to avenge an insult.

Young Strange will no doubt have a fair trial. He has able counsel, and his jury will be men who are above all prejudice in the case, and who will find according to the law and the evidence.

The plea of self-defence is that on which the young prisoner must rely tor a verdiet of acquittal. Failing to establish that, the Jury under the rulings of our Supreme Court, have nothing left to do but enter a verdiet of guilty of murder or manslanghter as the case may be. The law presumes the malice, the killing being admitted; and at the same time time seals the lips of the pri soner. So that, these bloody and barbarous rules of our boasted Juridical system, will convict a man of murder if he kills another accidentally, and is unfortunate enough not to have had a witnessof the deed: or if he kills one in self defence, is unable to prove it by the mouth of witnesses. William Elwood, though he killed Sanford accidentally, was within twenty-four hours of the gallows, when the Governor interposed the Executive arm, and shielded an innocent man from

the Sword of Justice (!)

These are the prevailing rules now as they were centuries ago in England, when men were hung for stealing a six-pence; for cutting down certain kinds of trees; for violating the game laws; and when the poor prisoner was not even allowed to have his witnesses subpagned by the Courts! It is by these rules that young Strange will be tried for his life. We think it high time the Courts were leaving the old beaten track of the English Judges and Attorneys-the Jeffreys and the Cokes, and unseal the lips of the prisoner, let him give his own account of the transaction on which his life depends; and convict no man of murder unless express malice can be proved beyond the shadow

Young Strange will no doubt have a fair and impartial trial; but we think it unfortunate that the law forbids him giving his own account of the bloody transaction, and that it will presume the malice, if necessary, and make murder of what may be only manslaugh er or a killing in sel'defense-as we understand the facts

THE RELIGIOUS TEST QUES-TION.

We find the following in the Petersburg Index Appeal:

One of the provisions of the new onstitution proposed for North Carolina is the following: "No person who shall deny the being of God, or the truth of the Christian religion, or the divine author of the Old and ew Testament, or shall hold religous principles incompatible with the edom or safety of the State, shall e capable of holding any office or ace of trust or profit in the civil department within this State." This the Index-Appeal found in one of its Virginia exchanges; and ra-published it for the purpose of expressing its views on the religioustest question. These views are embodied in the following sentences, all of which we fully endorse : We doubt very gravely the wisdom or justice of any of these disabling conditions. We hold with the most orthodox as to the validity and value of the Christian religion; but we do not consider that those who hold otherwise ought to be deprived of any civil privilege whatever There is, useful, peaceful and well-disposed section in the law that would put faith of their fathers should deprive graced civilization in the middle ages all over Europe. Abstractly consid ered, there was no more wrong in the pulling of the teeth of Isaac of York, to extort money, than in the disabl-ing of respectable and honorable citizens for conscience and religion's sake. We hope our North Carolina brethren will think twice before they adopt any such provision as is report-

North Carolinians most certainly would "think twice" before adopting such an amendment, There is no such proscriptive spirit as this among a people that do honor and homage to a man who has done himself and his State so much credit in his distinguished effort to do justice to "the Scattered Nation."

We are happy to disabuse the mind of the Index-Appeal of so erroneous an impression concerning our State and the Convention. No such amendment as that reported by it. has been proposed by the Convention as an amendment to the Constitution. A resolution embodying the language quoted was offered by Rev. Mr. Spake, of Jackson, a Protestant Minister ; but it was adversely reported on by the committee to which it was referred, and fell stillborn. We doubt if there was a single delegate in the Convention, except the author of the Resolution, who would have voted for such a

The part of the Constitution relating to disqualifications for office was untouched.

It disqualifies "All persons who shall deny the being of Almighty God." Under this clause Mr. Thorne was expelled from the last General Assembly. The Constitution adopted at Halifax in 1776, contained this clause No person who shall deny the being of God, or the truth of the [Proteseither of the Old or New Testament, or who shall hold religious principle neompatible with the freedom and safety of the State, shall be capable of holding any office or place of trust of profit in the civil department, within

The Constitutional Convention of 1835 amended this clause by striking out Protestant and inserting Christian instead thereof, so that Roman Catholics would not be banned. In 1868, the Constitutional Convention struck out the whole clause and disqualified only those persons "who shall deny the being of Almighty God," This let in the Jews.

Jews and Gentiles, Protestants and Catholics, may enjoy the inestimable privilege of holding office under the Constitution of North Carolina; and religious bigotry and persecution is forever, we hope, relegated to the dark things of past ages.

The Question of Taxing the National Banks of this State.

We are permitted by Col. Anderson, the President of the Citizens' National Bank of this city, to publish the following letter from the Solicia tor of the Treasury at Washington, relative to the right of a State to tax the National Banks:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT.

Office Comptroller Currency, Washington, Sept. 23, 1875. Sir:-I enclose you herewith press copy of the opinion of the Solicitor of the Treasury as to the Constitutionimposition by a State a fincense tax upon National Banks as a tax upon their capital; and also in reference to the Constitutionality of the law of your State of 1871-2, re quiring National Banks to report to ne Secretary of State, a copy of which law was enclosed to me in your letter of May 24th last.

Very respectfully, JNO. JAY KNOX, W. E. Aneerson, President of Cit-izens National Bank, Raleigh, N. C.

[COPY.] DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE, Office Solicitor of Treasury, Washington, Sept. 18, 1875.

Sir :- I am in receipt of your communication, requesting my opinion as to the constitutionality of an imposition by a State, of a license-tax upon National Banks, or a tax upon their Capital. The laws of Florida, ch. 1976 & 71, provide that all banks and bankers shall pay a license of one hundred dollars; and that Counties may impose such further or other license, taxes or rates for county purposes, not exceeding one half of the amount levied by the State, as they may deem The County Commissioners for Duvall County, Florida, levy one-half of the amount imposed by the State and the Collecter of said county demanded $150, for the State and county license of the First National

The 15th section of the Revenu Law of North Carolina assumed to impose in addition to the ad valorem tax on Capital invested annually, a tax according to capital invested upon every National Bank or Asociation &c. In North Carolina (Laws 1875-5, C 205) it is attempted to subject National Banks to inquisitorial power by the Secretary of State to enforce reports to him of their affairs to secure and pay for his certificate of ap-proval; and it is made a misdemeanor in officers of such institutions, punishable by fine and imprisonment at the discretion of the Courts, to transact business without first having obtained a certificate of such approval. There are other provisions more exposed to criticism but not necessary to be considered or en-umerated in this connection.

The Attorney General for the State of North Carolina has promulgated his opinion that chapter 215 (Laws 1874 5) is binding upon National Banks. The authorities have expressed a determination to enforce the provisions of the Act. The Re vised Statutes, Sec. 5311, provided that no Association shall be to any powers other than such as are authorized by this title, or are vested in the Courts of Justice. This pro-vision directly precludes the law of North Carolina 1874 5, Chap. 215. The entire legislation under discassion is at variance with the law as adjudicated; and subversive and destructive of the principles govern ing the relations of the Federal and State Governments.

I believe the following propositions will dispose of the questions involved, and I am satisfied that they are based upon acknowledged law and principle.

1st, Congress possesses the power to incorporate a bank as incidental to the beneficial exercise or its express power. The principle was introduced at a very early period of our history (the first Congress by Act, February 5th 1791, C. 84 incorporated a bank) it has been recognized by many successive legislatures (in 1815, 1816 &c) has been acted upon by the Judiciary and executive de-partments, and has been considered a law of undoubted obligation even in criminal cases.

The Government of the Union, though limited in its means, is su-preme within its sphere of action. The nation, on these subjectson which it can, must necessarily bind its component parts

Among the enumerated powers given to Congress, we do not find that of establishing a bank or creating a corporation. But there is no phrase in the Constitution which excludes incidental or implied powers, as in the Articles of Confederation, and requires that everything granted shall be expressly and minitely described.

Congress has power to tax and collect taxes; to pay the debts, and pro-vide for the common defence and eneral welfare; to borrow money on the credit of the Nation: to regulate ommerce; to coin money and regulate the circulating medium; to establish post-offices and post-roads; to leclare and carry on war; to raise and support armies; and to provide and maintain a Navy and to make all laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into execution usual in the National Government or any of its departments or officers. The laws thus made are declared to be the Supreme law of the land. State officers and members of State Legislatures take an oath of fidelity to this supreme law.

The creation of a corporation appertains to sovereignity, but so does the power to make laws. The whole penal code of the United States, (ex cept in cases of counterfeiting, piracies, felonies committed on the high seas, and offences against the law of nations, specifically enumerated,) is based upon the incidental powers of Congress as essential to the beneficial xercise of its express powers. The power of punishment appertains to overeignity as incidental to express Constitutional powers; and the power to create a corporation is not like the power of making war, a great sub-stantive and independent power, which cannot be implied as incidental to other powers, or used as a means of executing The power of creating a corporaion is never used for its own sake, but t effect something else, and it may pass as ncidental to those powers which are expressly given, if it be a direct mode of executing them. McCullough v Maryland, 4 Whea. R. 516.

To use a bank most be within the disretion of Congress, if it be the means of executing the powers of Government. It is the function of the Legislative department, if the law is calculated to effect any of the objects intrusted to the Government, to decide upon the degree of its necessity. The choice of means implie a right to choose a National Bank in prefrence to State banks, and Co alone can make the decision-McCulough v Maryland, 4 Whea. R. 316. The Bank of the United States was de clared to be constitutionally created, and to be free from State taxation as to the Bank and its branches. The qualities, powers and duties, as na tional Agencies, of these National Banks resemble, in almost all essential particu lars, those of the bank of the States, authorized by the Act of April 10th 1816. Like that bank, they are or ganized under National legislation. Their Capital, like four-fifths of the Capital of that bank, is supplied by individual subscriptions. They are employed like that bank, as agents and depositor of the National Government. The National Banks are subject to no control except that of the Government executing the law; their notes, besides being second as to immediate redemption by the several Associations, which pay them out through the deposit of United States bonds, are, in substance and to all practical intents, the obligations of the Government itself; and are intended, in connection with the notes issued directly by the Government, to supply the entire note circulation of all the States, and all the Territories of the Union. The general supervision of their action was committed to the Comptroller of the currency; one-third of their Capital to be invested in interest bearing bonds of the United States; their circulating notes are prepared by the Federal Government and they are convertible immediately into notes of the United States; and convertible into coin as soon as the Government shall provide for the payment of its own notes in that medium. Their notes were made receivable for all debts and liabilities whatever; receivable by all Associations employed as depositories, when de-posited by the United States; receivable also by the United States for all dues except duties on imports; and by all persons for all dues from the United States, except interest on the public debt. [Sec. Van Allen v Assessors & Wal-

McCullough v Maryland, Sup. p. 425

The Constitution and the laws made in oursuance thereof, are supreme; they con-States, and cannot be controlled by them, 2nd p. 426. That the power of taxing a States, and cannot be controlled by them, 2nd p. 426. That the power of taxing a National Bank by the States may be exercised so as to destroy it, is too obvious to be denied (Marshall, C. J. id.)

A State Legislature, unrestricted by Constitutional prohibition, has power to execute cortain property from taxation exempt certain property from taxation (Tomlinson v Cr. 15, Wallace R. 460.) As State Constitutions are within the con-trol of the people thereof, they could perrimination, as to destroy all National Banks, or other agencies of the Federal Government, unless the para mount authority of the Government of the Union is maintained. A part cannot be greater than the whole.

The sovereignty of a State extends to every thing which exists by its authority, or is introduced by its permission, but does not extend to those means which are employed by Congress to carry into execution powers conferred on that body by the people of the United States. [Mc-Cullough v Maryland, 4 Whea, 4291.] The Bank of the United States and the National Banks are agencies of the Govrnment, and therefore, and necessarily

The powers of the Federal Government to borrow money could, on any other theory, be defeated and destroyed by any A tax equal to the rate of inte on the Government securities would maniestly render them worthless.

Under the National Currency, Act the only permissive legislation of Congress, touching the subject of State Taxation of the shares of National Banks, is set. It has been adjusted that the shares of the stockholders in National Banks, ire subject to State taxation, without delucting the amount of the capital invested in Government securities.
Van Allen v Assessors, 3 Wallace, R.

573; People v Commissioner, 4 Wallace, R. 244; Bradley v People, 4-id-R. 459. These cases were decided upon the theory that the tax upon shares was not a tax upon Federal bonds, but was taxed pon the benefits the Shareholders would lerive from them under a privilege conerred upon their use in these Associations, under the Act of Congress (i. e. dividends) and not contemplated to the oan Acts. The tax was not a tax upon the Capital, or franchise of the bank In the two former cases (Van Allen v ssessors, and People v Commissioners strong dissent was made to the oninior of the Court by Chase, C. J., and Wayne and Swayne, J. J., upon the proposition, that taxation of shares was actual, though ndirect taxation of United States bon o far as the same comprise the Capital of National Banks, and so expressly prohibited by Act 25 February 1863 amended and re-enacted 3rd June 1864. Average per cent urplus returned to policy-holders in 1874, 40.44 per cent. This percentage of surplus returned is much greater than that of any other conpany, and more than that of a sy other conpany, and more than two tant of several leading ones. It is the legitimate and inevitable result of care in the selection of risks and high rate of interest received from well-howest assets. As the actual root of the insorance to the policy-hoide is regulated, not by the amount the Company is able to save and return to him from the premium paid, this latter item is of the greatest importance. Manifestly the company which is able to return to its policy-hoiders the most surplus premiums, furnishes the insurance at the lowest cost. THE JACKSON STATUE.

A GRAND DEMONSTRATION-IMPOSING CEREMONIES-VIRGINIANS DELIGHT-ING TO HONOR VIR-GINIA'S PATRIOT

The Crowd---The Procession---The Statue-Gov. Kemper's Remarks -Rev. Dr. Hege. the Grator of the Day, Pays a Beautiful Tribute to Jacksen's Memory-Other

Incidents, &c. [TELEGRAPHED TO DAILY NEWS.]

RICHMOND, VA., Oct. 26.-This day has been made memorable in the annals of Richmond, and lent additional lustre to the proud name of Virginia by the tribute of its people to the memory of its gallant warrier, patriot and christian soldier, Gen. T. J. (Stonewall) Jackson, on the occasion of the formal inauguration of the statue by Foley, presented to Virginia by a number of English gentlemen. The imposing pageant and interesting ceremonies combined to make the grandest demonstration ever witnessed in this city. The attractions of the State Fair and this extraordinary event has brought together people from every direction within the borders of the State, as well as from sympathizing communities beyond. This fact was evidenced on all sides by the crowded condition of the streets, the holiday appearance of the city, the many thousands of spectators along the line of march, and the general exthusism that prevailed. Decorations of every description were to be seen in every tion, embracing evergreens in every conceivable shape, festoonings of the national colors with appropriate scriptions, banners and flags of many nations, the Federal and English colors predominating.

At an early hour the principa streets began to present an animated appearance, the crowds gathering eadily until the procession moved, which time the sidewalks along route of march were crowded with route of march were crowded with oring masses, and every available place where a view could be had filled with eager spectators. The procession occupied one hour and a half passing a given point, moving rapidly, and was composed of all the city military, infantry and artillery, visiting com-panies from Norfolk, Petersburg, Charlottesville, Staunton, Williams burg and North Carolina, the con of cadets of the Virginia Military Iustitute, with their battery, the cadets of the Agricultural and Mechanical College at Blocksburg, Virginia, sorrowing members of many commands of the late warincluding those of the famous Stonewal Brigade, the Catholic Societies ichmoud, the students of Richmond College, singing societies, besides a long cortege of carriages and other vehicles containing many distinguished individuals. Gen. Joseph E. Johnston was Chief Mar shai and Gen. Harry Heth his principal assistant.

Notwithstanding Gen. Heth's letter, the colored organizations dec not to turn out, although it was be-lieved they would up to the last mo-

Arrived at the Capitol, the procession was massed in the vicinity of the veiled statue of the platform from which the oration was to be delivered, when, after prayer by Doggett, of the Methodist Episcopa Church, South, Gov. Kemper made an lunductory address in which he spoke in the most feeling terms of the occasion and in eulogy of Jackson. In one of his references to this tribute to the memory of a great man he said: "Let it endure as a perpetual expression of that world-wide sympathy with true greatness prompted so noble a gift from Great Britain to Virginia, and let its preservation attest the gratitude of the commonwealth to those great originated and procured it as a triboriginated and procured to the ute to the interpretation of the freshyterian M. D. Hoge, of the freshyterian M. D. Hoge, of the Presbyterian church, as the orest of the day. Dr. Hoge, after an eloquent exordium in which he alluded to the hallered in which he alluded by the occasion memories suggested by the scasion and the inspiring scene before him, discussed what he considered three elements of the secret of Jackson's power and influence; first, in the fact that he was the incarnation of those heroic qualities which fit their poslead and command men and which therefore always attract the admiration, kindle the imaginatisn and arouse the enthusiasm of the people; second, his was the great which comes without being sought for its own sake, the unconscious greatness which results from self sacrifices and supreme devotion to duty; third, the purity and elevation of his character as a servant of the most high God. Dr. Hoge eloquently and ably illustrated and enforced these points by striking incidents in the life of the great chieftain. In his conclusion, he aliuded to the condition of the country, and said that a soldier's parole was a sacred thing, and the followers and comrades of Stonewall Jackson would be true to their parole and to the union of these American States, but at the same time that Union can only command the hearty love when it returns to those great fundamental principles of the Constitution which gives to ot the States equal rights with Massichusetts and New York. He concluded by summoning the spirits of the heroes and statesmen of the past whose bronze forms greet the eye on Capital Hill to speak words of wis dom and patriotism for the guidance son's words breathing the same hal lowed lessons.

The oration was frequently inter rupted by enthusiastic applause; as the last words of the orator died away, the veiling of the monument was suddenly withdrawn, and amid the thundering cheers of the multitude, the firing of musketry and booming of cannon, the bronze of Jackson greeted the gaze of the assembled thousands.

At this point Gen. Page, of Nor-folk, introduced to the crowd Gen. Jackson's only child, a little girl of thirteen, who was received with deafening and continued cheers. The ceremonies were concluded by
